- The Information Library is a webpage located on the WTA website
 - It is literally an electronic "library" of "information" pertinent to town/village government
 - Information is organized by topic, general in nature, and is for informational purposes only
 - Includes sample ordinances and resolutions
 - Alcohol licensing, annexation, bidding, cemeteries, budget, ethics, grants, snowplowing, and more!

Welcome To The WTA's Information Library!

The information posted in this section is organized by topic, is general in nature, and is for informational purposes only. All ordinances and resolutions provided herein are samples. There are complexities in every situation that a town faces that must be addressed on a case-bycase basis. Thus, the content of these samples is provided as an example and is intended to be modified and adapted to meet the specific needs of the user. No sample ordinance or resolution should be used without prior careful review. More importantly, the resources provided in this section should not be construed as legal advice. Case law and legislative changes can substantially impact a pre-existing sample and an archived article. Hence, it is imperative that you consult your town attorney on issues affecting your town and that any sample ordinance or resolution.

Additionally, the Wisconsin Town Law Forms book provides a vast number of sample ordinances and resolutions that are too immense to list here. We are grateful to the Legislative Reference Bureau for hosting these forms.

	Q. How do we determine the width of a road?
	A. There is no uniform standard under state statute to determine how big a road is. The answer to this question ultimately depends on the method that was used in the town's acquisition of the road. If the highway was acquired by deed or written easement, the width of the road should be indicated on the deed or easement. The same is true if the road was acquired by acceptance of a plat. The width should be indicated on the deed or plat filed with the register of deeds.
	If the town laid out the road by issuing a highway order, the width should have been specified in that order. If no width was specified in that order, state statute provides that the road is 66 feet wide. See Wis. Stat. § 82.18. However, if the road was acquired by having worked it 10 years or more and there is not a written record laying out the road, the width is presumed to be 66 feet. See Wis. Stat. § 82.18(2).
	Towns should be aware that the presumption of a 4-rod road (66 feet) can be overcome by evidence of an ancient fence line, trees growing up to the edge of the road, natural barriers such as bluffs, etc. If the facts concerning the width are in dispute, litigation may have to be used to resolve the issue or the town might consider purchasing additional right of way by deed or entertaining a petition (or introducing a resolution) to widen the road and pay damages under Wis. Stat. § 82.10-14.
	Q. The town has been noticing a lot of vegetation growing within the road right of way. What can the town do?
	A. Under Wis. Stat. § 66.1037(1), towns have the authority to remove, cut, or trim any tree, shrub, or other vegetation (within the road right of way) in order to provide safety to highway users.

Many magazine articles (both current and past) are available on the WTA website
